Bhutan

Highlights of Spring

Blood Pheasant by David Hoddinott

Bhutan remains one of the least spoiled and most culturally intact countries in the Himalayas. Cloaked in vast forests, scattered with ancient monasteries and fortress-like dzongs, and framed by snow-capped peaks, this remarkable kingdom offers some of the most spectacular birding scenery anywhere in Asia.

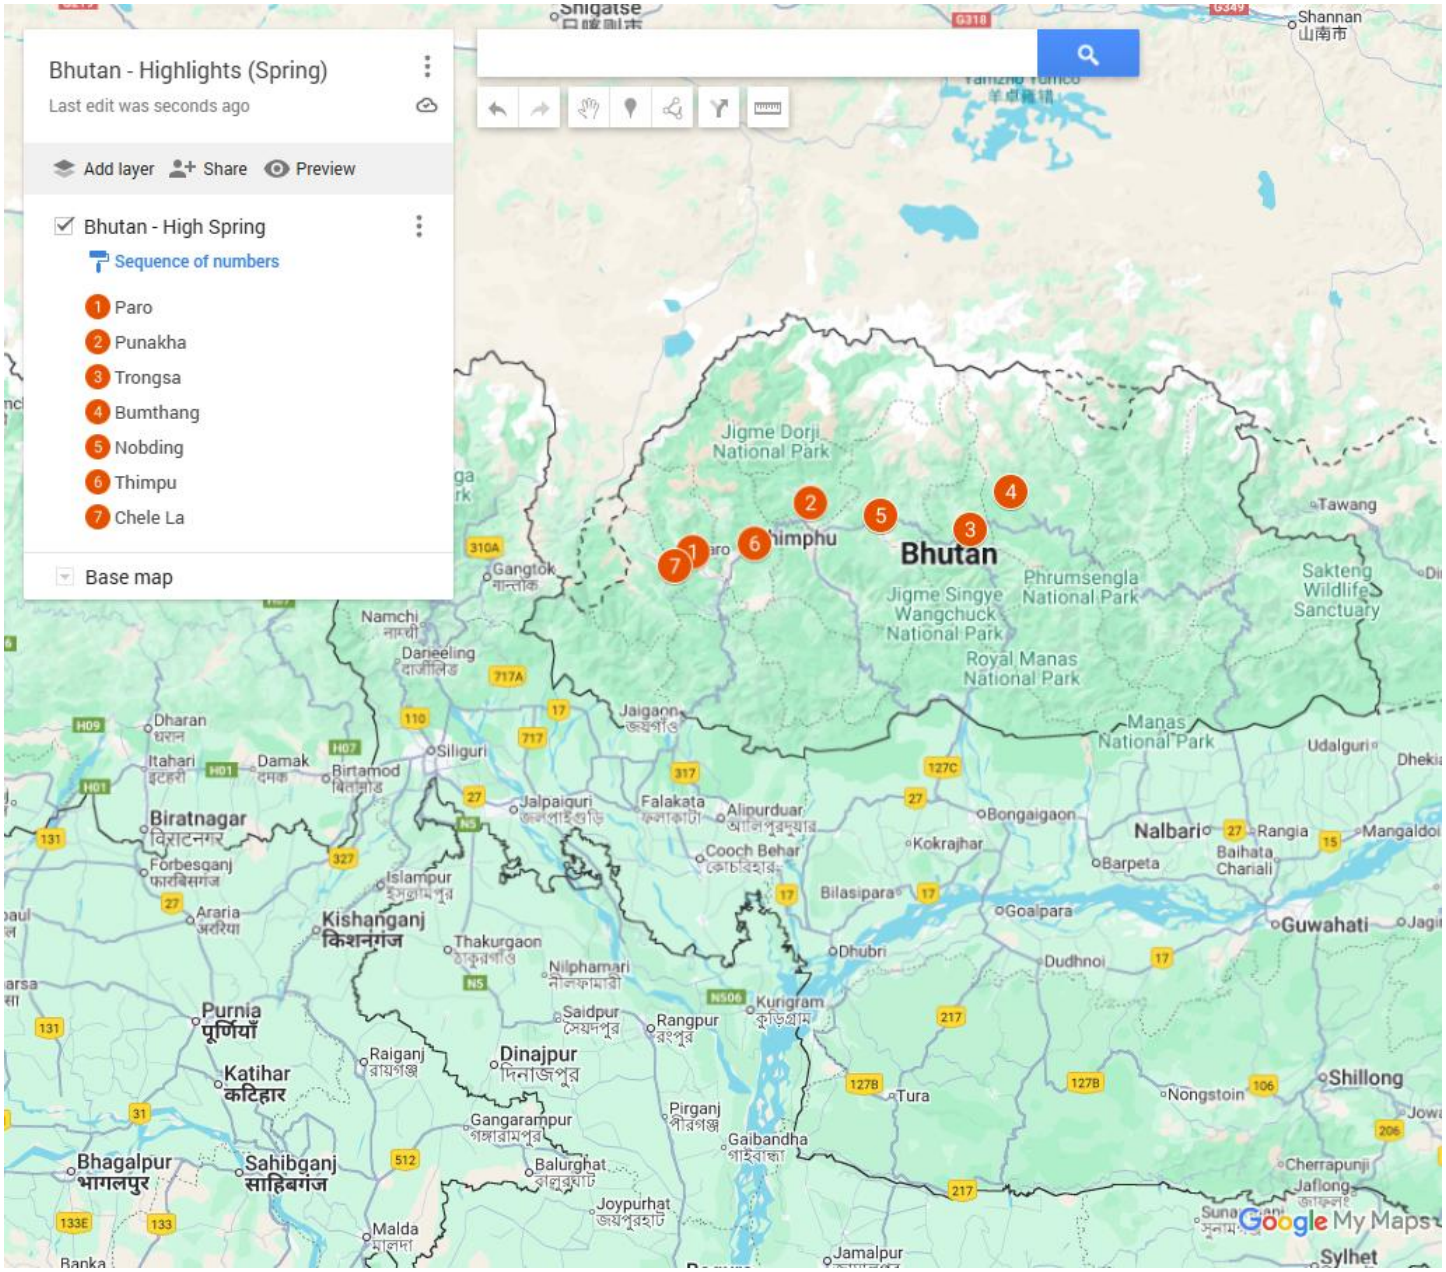

Our journey through this Himalayan wonderland takes us from subtropical river valleys to high mountain passes draped in colourful prayer flags, traversing a remarkable range of habitats in search of an exceptional diversity of birds. Along the way we will explore pristine broad-leaved and coniferous forests, scenic alpine slopes and fast-flowing rivers while searching for a host of Himalayan specialities, including Himalayan Monal, Satyr Tragopan, Ward's Trogon, Fire-tailed Myzornis, Beautiful Rosefinch, White-bellied Heron and the dazzling Fire-tailed Sunbird.

Beyond the birding, Bhutan's unique Buddhist culture remains deeply woven into everyday life. Impressive dzongs, remote monasteries and traditional villages all contribute to the distinctive atmosphere of this extraordinary country, while dramatic mountain scenery provides a constant backdrop throughout the tour.

This itinerary has also been specifically designed to maximise comfort, with all nights spent in hotel accommodation, no camping required.

Birding sites in detail

Dochu La. The higher slopes of scenic Dochu La harbour excellent birds such as the radiant Fire-tailed Myzornis, Yellow-billed Blue Magpie, Ward's Trogon, Black-headed Shrike-Babbler, White-browed Fulvetta and Spotted Nutcracker and, if we are especially fortunate, a flock of Fulvous Parrotbills may even make an appearance. If the day is clear, the lofty pass affords outstanding views of the surrounding Himalayan peaks, several of which exceed 7,500m. Prayer flags draped across the pass add to the visual splendour of this spectacular Himalayan setting.

Punakha Valley. Situated at 1,250m above sea level, the Punakha Valley has an almost tropical feel. Time permitting, we'll visit the avian-rich Royal Botanical Park on the lower slopes of Dochu La, where a host of fabulous birds can be found. Highlights could include Darjeeling and Rufous-bellied Woodpeckers, Crimson-browed Finch, Himalayan Bluetail, Ibisbill, Spot-winged Starling, Slender-billed Oriole, Black-winged Cuckooshrike, Grey-winged and White-collared Blackbirds, Chestnut-headed Tesia, Ultramarine Flycatcher, Sikkim Treecreeper, Spot-winged Grosbeak, Fire-capped Tit, Green-tailed and Mrs. Gould's Sunbirds, Snowy-browed Flycatcher and the shy Hill Partridge.

Tashitang Valley. We'll bird the lovely broad-leaved subtropical forest along the swift Mo Chhu River within the vast Jigme Dorji National Park. Species we will search for along this route include the highly threatened White-bellied Heron, now tragically scarce in the region, Tawny Fish Owl, Himalayan Swiftlets hawking overhead, Crested Kingfisher, Great and Golden-throated Barbets, Bay Woodpecker, Mountain Hawk-Eagle, Mountain Bulbul, Fire-tailed Sunbird, Short-billed Minivets, Bar-winged Flycatcher-Shrike, Tickell's Leaf Warbler, Small Niltava, Pale-blue, Dark-sided, Slaty-backed and Ferruginous Flycatchers, Hodgson's Redstart, the skulking Himalayan Shortwing, Slaty-bellied Tesia, Chestnut-bellied Nuthatch and Chestnut-tailed Starling.

Our route passes the impressive fortress monastery of Punakha Dzong, a magnificent reminder of Bhutan's deep Buddhist heritage. This was the second dzong constructed in Bhutan and served as the seat of government until the reign of the second king. Our lodge is situated outside the city on a hill overlooking the Punakha Valley and its spectacular dzong.

Trongsa. Here we will have the opportunity to visit the spectacular Trongsa Dzong, ancestral home of Bhutan's royal family. Wide stone stairways and enchanting courtyards provide access to the elaborate interior, where resident monks continue their daily rituals. Located high above the Mangde Chhu, Trongsa contains one of Bhutan's most magnificent dzongs, renowned for its striking architecture, rich history and golden roofs gleaming across the valley. The surrounding broad-leaved evergreen forest holds specialities such as the boldly patterned Spotted Forktail, Grey-bellied Tesia and Spotted Elachura, now placed within its own monotypic family.

Bumthang. Our spectacular drive to Bumthang winds through pristine hillside forests, prayer-flag-lined passes and traditional villages framed by snow-capped peaks. On exceptionally clear days we may even glimpse Bhutan's highest mountain, Gangkar Puensum, rising to 7,541m and still regarded as the highest unclimbed mountain on Earth.

Our journey passes through numerous small villages and goembas settled neatly within the Chume Valley. Here we will search for the secretive Brown Parrotbill and the localised Beautiful Rosefinch.

Yotongla Pass. We'll bird the high-altitude coniferous forests at approximately 3,400m for Himalayan Vulture, Red Crossbill, Coal, Rufous-vented and Grey-crested Tits, Rusty-flanked Treecreeper, Spotted Nutcracker, White-browed and Dark-rumped Rosefinches, White-browed Fulvetta, Stripe-throated Yuhina, Alpine Accentor, Hoary-throated Barwing and Slender-billed Scimitar-Babbler.

Tharpaling Monastery. This high, often snowbound monastery offers excellent opportunities for Satyr Tragopan, Blood Pheasant and Himalayan Monal, while we may also encounter Snow Pigeon, Black-faced Laughingthrush, Large-eared Pika, Beautiful Rosefinch, Plain Mountain Finch, Little Bunting, Red-billed Chough and Black-rumped Magpie.

Bumthang to Nobding. Many species inhabit the mixed conifer and rhododendron forests high in the mountains, and today we'll spend time exploring this habitat in search of Spotted and Scaled Laughingthrushes, Himalayan Shortwing, Hume's Bush Warbler, Grey-sided Bush Warbler, Gold-naped Finch, Scaly-breasted Cupwing and Fire-tailed Sunbird.

Pele La. We may encounter the gregarious Snow Pigeon and the sought-after Satyr Tragopan here. Other species include Slender-billed Scimitar-Babbler, White-spectacled Warbler, Darjeeling Woodpecker, Rufous-fronted Bushtit, Great Parrotbill, Golden Bush Robin, Long-tailed Minivet, Green-tailed Sunbird and the skulking Grey-sided Bush Warbler.

The top of the pass may yield White-winged and Collared Grosbeaks, Himalayan Vulture, Himalayan Monal, Spotted Laughingthrush, Rufous-winged Fulvetta, Fire-tailed Sunbird, Northern Goshawk and excellent views of Bearded Vulture. Mammals could include Royle's Pika and Northern Red Muntjac. Nearby areas may also produce Brown Parrotbill, Little Bunting and Pin-tailed Snipe.

Phobjikha Valley. Set against the dramatic backdrop of the Black Mountains, this scenic valley hosts avian gems such as Mrs. Gould's Sunbird, Blood Pheasant, Green Shrike-Babbler and Spotted Laughingthrush.

Thimpu to Paro. This morning we embark on the scenic drive towards Paro. The route traverses drier habitat where Himalayan Bulbul, Green-billed Malkoha, Orange-bellied Leafbird and Speckled Wood Pigeon may be encountered before we reach the icy rivers of the valley. Here we can search for Brown Dipper alongside striking White-capped and Plumbeous Water Redstarts.

We then visit the world-renowned Tiger's Nest Monastery. Listed as a UNESCO World Heritage Site, the monastery was built in 1692 on a sheer cliff face at 3,120m above sea level. Clinging dramatically above the valley floor, it remains one of Bhutan's most iconic and unforgettable sights!

Chele La. Situated in the forest-cloaked hills above Paro, Chele La is probably the finest place in the world to see the dazzling Himalayan Monal, surely one of the Himalayas' most spectacular birds. Additional pheasants may include Blood Pheasant, Kalij Pheasant and Satyr Tragopan. Other species possible here include Darjeeling

Woodpecker, White-browed Rosefinch, Red-headed Bullfinch, Collared and White-winged Grosbeaks, Plain Mountain Finch, Goldcrest, Rufous-breasted Accentor, Long-tailed Thrush, Spotted Laughingthrush and perhaps even a motionless Eurasian Woodcock concealed on the forest floor.

Paro. We will spend a short time searching along the Paro Chu for the secretive Black-tailed Crake, Pin-tailed Snipe, Rosy Pipit and one of the most sought-after shorebirds in the world – the beautiful Ibisbill! This elegant wader, placed in its own monotypic family, is often found here while it searches for food amongst the boulders of fast-flowing streams in the region.

Highlights Tours offer a full birding experience in a shorter timeframe, focusing on the destination's key birding sites and species. They retain the pace and intensity of our Classic tours, including early starts, long field days and night birding where necessary. They are not designed to be easier, slower or more relaxed. Rather than attempting comprehensive coverage, we concentrate on the most important sites and a strong selection of priority species. They are ideal for birders seeking a rewarding, focused birding experience with limited time available.

- Please be aware that several of the mountain passes we traverse reach altitudes of around 13,000 feet. These elevations may cause altitude-related discomfort for some guests, and temperatures can be very cold, particularly in exposed areas. Rain and occasional snowfall are also possible during parts of the tour. If you have any concerns regarding altitude, please inform the Rockjumper office well in advance of departure. In contrast, conditions in the southern parts of the country can at times be hot and humid, with strong sun and high UV exposure increasing the risk of sunburn.
- While the food is generally very good and flavourful, the variety of dishes can occasionally be limited, particularly in more remote areas. Meals may also be fairly spicy at times. Please advise us of any dietary requirements well in advance of the tour.
- Bhutan remains relatively untouched by mass tourism and the local people are renowned for their friendliness and courtesy. It is considered inappropriate to hand out sweets, money or other items to children or local bystanders encountered during the tour. Your sensitivity and respect for local customs are greatly appreciated.
